DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-4 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-23 of U.S. Patent No. 6,623,743).

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patent is to a cherry juice extract that does not contain sugars or acid, and a carrier that is a dried cherry pulp (col. 11, lines 24-30, 34-35), col. 12, lines 12-17).

Claims 1-4 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-28 of U.S. Patent No. 6,423,365).

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patent discloses a dry mixture of pulp and cherry juice ingredients (col. 9, lines 43-50).

Claims 1-4 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-28 of U.S. Patent No. 6,676,978).

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the patent discloses a dry mixture of pulp and cherry juice ingredients (col. 9, lines 43-50, col. 10, lines 55-56).

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the drawings must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New

Art Unit: 1761

Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Also, the Brief Description of the drawings should describe the instant invention.

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper content of an abstract of the disclosure.

A patent abstract is a concise statement of the technical disclosure of the patent and should include that which is new in the art to which the invention pertains. If the patent is of a basic nature, the entire technical disclosure may be new in the art, and the abstract should be directed to the entire disclosure. If the patent is in the nature of an improvement in an old apparatus, process, product, or composition, the abstract should include the technical disclosure of the improvement. In certain patents, particularly those for compounds and compositions, wherein the process for making and/or the use thereof are not obvious, the abstract should set forth a process for making and/or use thereof. If the new technical disclosure involves modifications or alternatives, the abstract should mention by way of example the preferred modification or alternative.

The abstract should not refer to purported merits or speculative applications of the invention and should not compare the invention with the prior art.

Where applicable, the abstract should include the following:

- (1) if a machine or apparatus, its organization and operation;
- (2) if an article, its method of making;
- (3) if a chemical compound, its identity and use;
- (4) if a mixture, its ingredients;
- (5) if a process, the steps.

Extensive mechanical and design details of apparatus should not be given.

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it does not describe the claimed invention which is to a composition. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mann (6231866) in view of Walker et al. (5,525,341) and Howell et al. (6,720,353).

Mann discloses a dried composition containing pomace (pulp) and juice from cranberries (a berry) (abstract). Claims 1 and 3 differ from the reference in that the acids and sugars have not been removed from the juice. However, Walker discloses a cranberry juice extract from which simple sugars and acid have been removed (abstract). Howell et al. disclose extracts from the Rosaceae (cherry family) (also claim 4) and cranberry containing juice from which sugars and acids were removed (abstract and col. 15, lines 15-30). The extract can be added to foods such as dried cranberries, fruit pieces or other foods (cranberries contain pulp) (col. 26, lines 24-28). No weight is given at this time to the limitation that the extract is dry as the claimed composition is to a dried product. Also, the composition can contain a pharmaceutically acceptable carrier and the extract (col. 22, lines 30-39). Therefore, it would have been obvious to use the acid and sugar extracted cranberry juice of Walker or Howell et al. in place of the unextracted juice of Mann in a composition containing pulp for the function of further nutritive enrichment particularly as Howell et al. disclose that her extract can be used with a carrier in admixture.

Art Unit: 1761

Claim 2 further requires a particular ratio between extracted berry juice and pulp. However, Howell et al. disclose that the amounts of the extract can be from 1 mg to 500 mg per day in tablets and other pharmaceutical compositions and food compositions (col. 13, lines 25-44). Also they can be used in amounts to eliminate symptoms (col. 24, lines 25-30). No criticality is seen in the amount of pulp, which is seen to be only a carrier for the extracted juice and has no nutritional effects. Therefore, it would have been obvious to use the juice and pulp in particular amounts for various functions.
